Dedication

Miss Gwendolyn Woolley truly lives in the hearts of her many students, who are grateful for her thorough teachings and shared advice.

A world traveller who represents her country well,
An energetic gardner who creates beauty with her flowers,
A cheerful homemaker who enjoys doing her household tasks,
A devoted school teacher who has taught Physical Education and Health for the past twenty-eight years at Las Vegas High School,
An understanding listener who is always interested in and helpful with her students' problems,
A talented person who puts her talents to good use,
A welcome friend who always extends her warm hand of friendship,
For your devotion, patience, understanding, friendship, and your loyalty to us, we dedicate to you our 1962 Wildcat Echo,
Miss Gwendolyn Woolley.

A teacher learning her profession in a dance class at the University of Utah—and students testify Miss Woolley learned well.

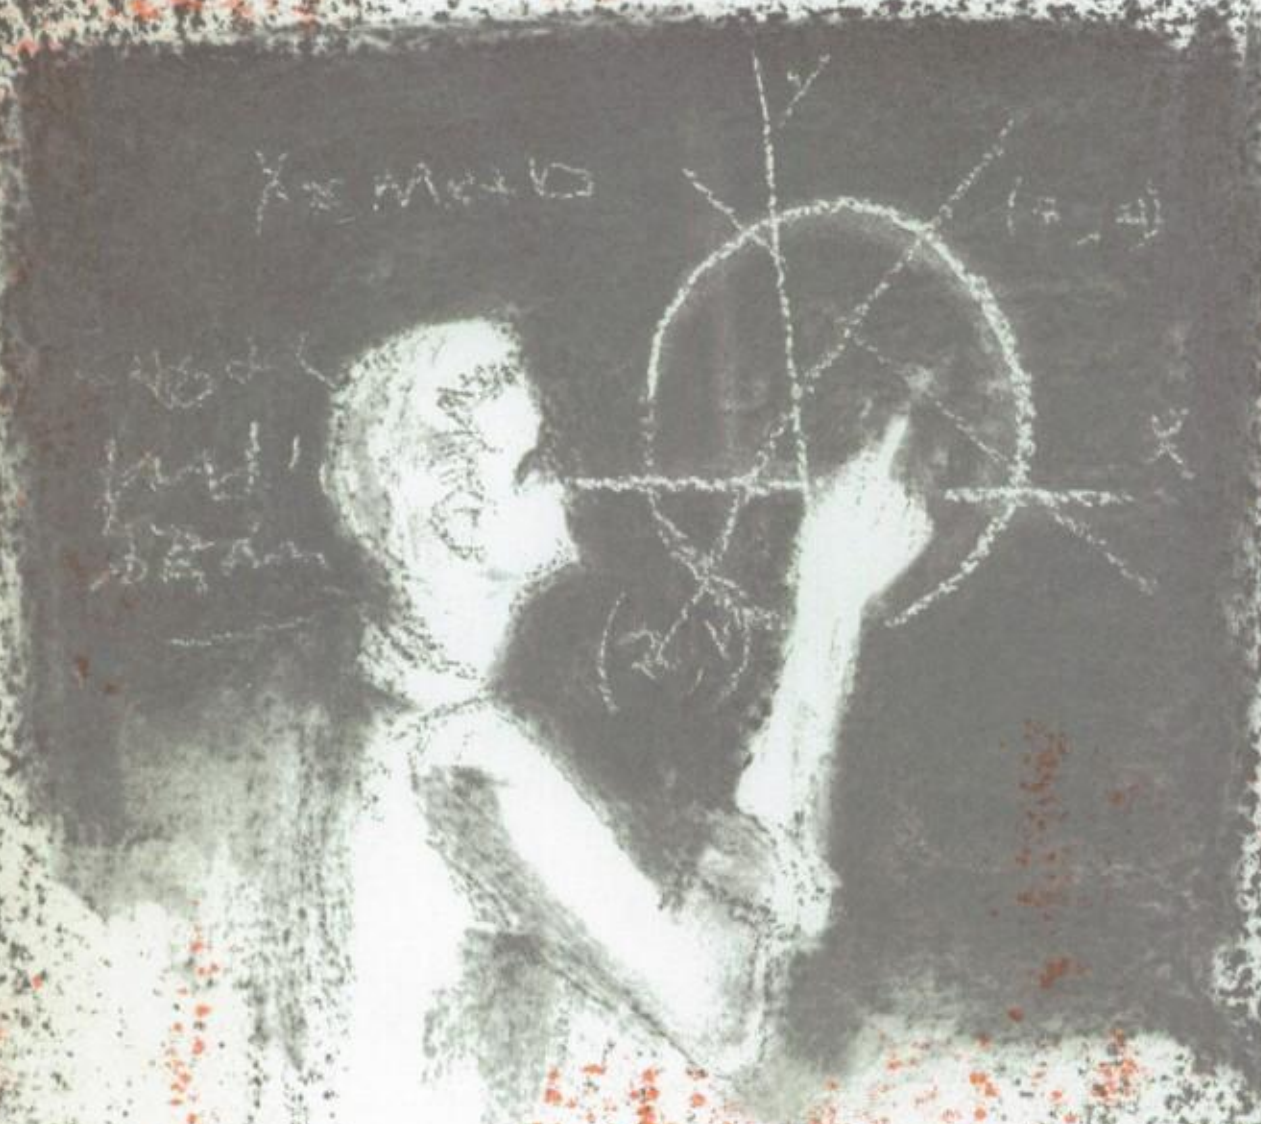

At eight years of age Miss Woolley was a student in her own right, just as we are to-day.

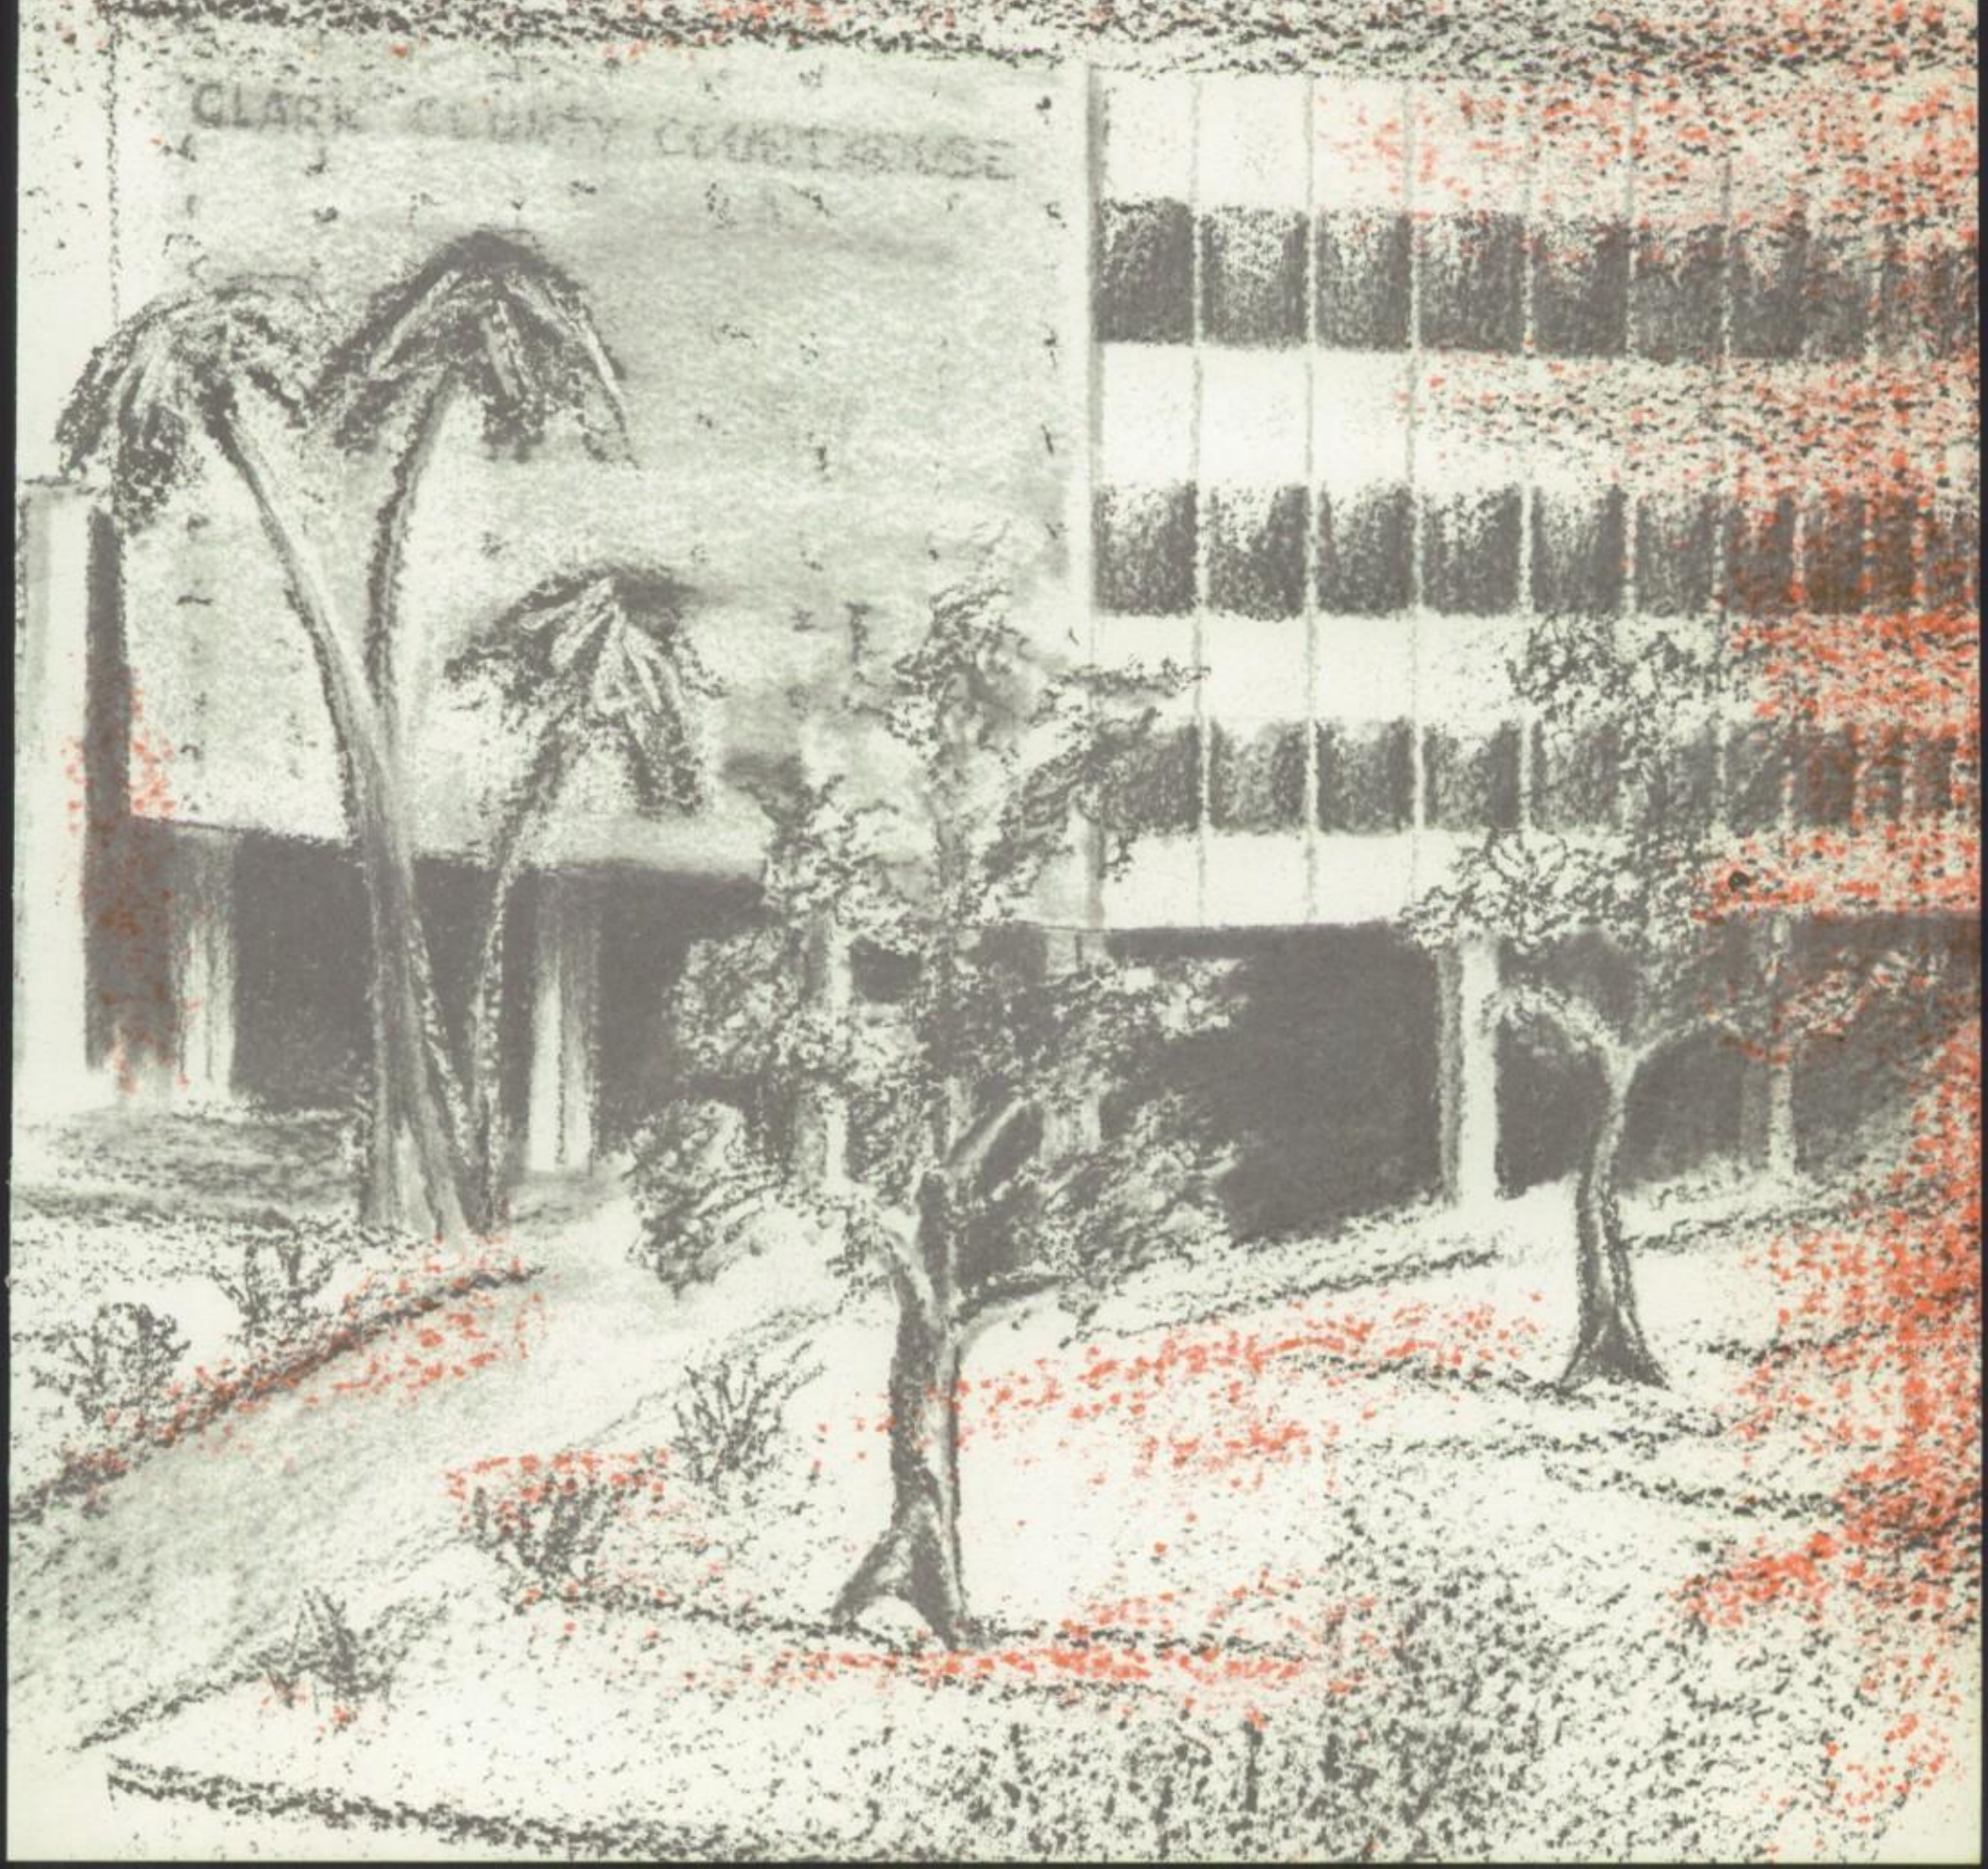

A favorite pasttime of Miss Woolley's is gardening—a hobby showing the results of her efforts.

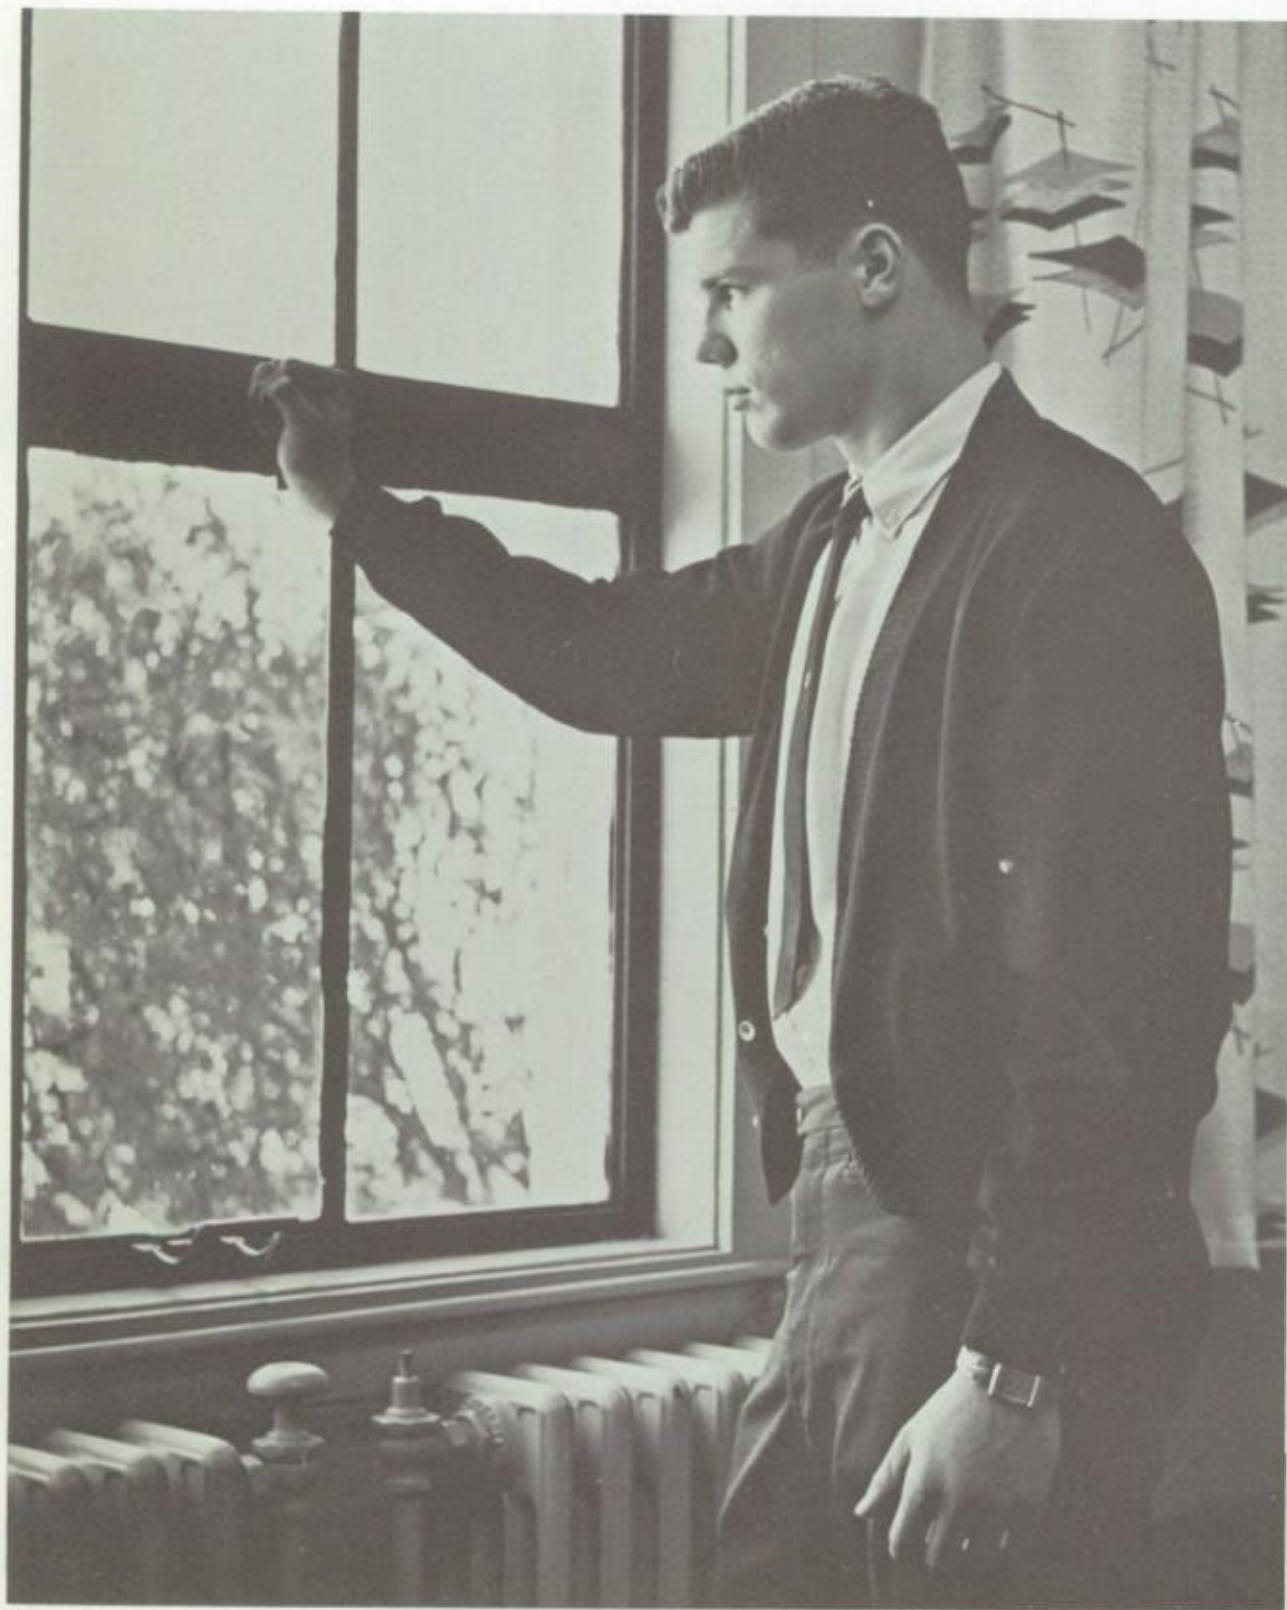

Classes are enjoyed by all when Miss Woolley discusses good health and correct spelling of germs, parts of the body, etc. in her interesting and lively way of teaching rules for healthy bodies and healthy minds.

Energetic Student Leaders Spark School Spirit . . .

Barry Johnson
Student Body President

New leaders and new ideas—each year is unique among all others, and this year's quintet of Student Body officers helped make the past year different. This year's officers were a variable, active group. Five people with a variety of interests worked together for the welfare of the school. They brought fresh ideas and new activities with them. The first annual Inaugural Ball was held, school calendars were sold, and the school constitution was revised again. These five had the power to act and they did. LVHS was fortunate in having such competent leaders.

The diligent efforts of Student Senators were rewarded at Homecoming with a Sweepstakes float, "Hellzapoppin."

Problems of utmost importance to the well-being of the school are carefully considered and dealt with during the bi-monthly sessions of Student Senate. Fifty-five delegates, each representing one home room, convene with the Student Body officers after school on alternate Monday evenings. Competently led by Barry Johnson, they discuss the matters that directly affect the Student Body and democratically review them. Every student in the school participates in the representative form of government so familiar to our nation and indirectly voices his opinion. Social and service activities are not ignored by the Senate. It sponsors many enjoyable dances and an annual carnival, as well as a yearly homecoming float and Thanksgiving baskets.

Seven students function as justices of the Senior Court. The court is a restricting organization which uses the school constitution as a basis for all rulings and judgments. The judges have established the power of judicial review, and they now may function as interpreters of the constitution. The Court also has the right to determine the legality of the actions of the Student Government. Senior Court may try violations of school codes. The Court was quite active this year as it utilized the prerogative that has long lain dormant. The Senior Court occupies a basic place in our Student Government—it does its duty well.

Student Enforcement Commissioners execute laws...

Tom Boyd
Commissioner

Suing students was a popular pastime during the past year. Individuals were sued by members of the faculty and the Student Senate. The Student Enforcement Commission played a major role in the suits, since serving subpoenas is one of its numerous jobs. The SEC was organized primarily to discourage students who tend to avoid assemblies. The group also has the duty of enforcing Senior Privileges, executing school laws and codes, and carrying out the wishes of the Senior Court and Student Senate.

Administrators Guide our Futures . . .

When Dr. Gray resigned last fall, he left a void in the Clark County school administration. Mr. Harvey Dondero, who acted in this capacity until a new administrator could be chosen, did a commendable job as superintendent for most of the first semester. Mr. Leland B. Newcomer was selected as Superintendent of Schools early in October. Mr. Newcomer was assistant superintendent at Covina, California. He was educated at La Verne College and Claremont Graduate School. He is currently working towards a doctorate at the University of Southern California.

Board of Education Competently Determines Policies . . .

Voters of Clark County elect the Clark County School Board at regularly scheduled elections. The School Board is comprised of six public spirited individuals. Led by Mr. Chester T. Sewell, they officially devote two nights each month to assure our school system the best possible conditions of operation. The Board performs its duties without remuneration. It is an indispensable faction of our educational system, for through it all of the problems that beset our school system are considered.

Walter V. Long
Principal

TO THE SENIORS OF THE CLASS OF 1962:

I congratulate you upon your graduation. I know your achievement warms the hearts of your parents, your friends and the faculty.

Now, given your normal span of life, you have fifty useful years ahead of each of you to do with what you will in making the world a better place in which to live. Assuming this fifty years of work, there will be, in round numbers, 22,500 man years of potential usefulness released for action. The force of this energy, properly applied, can hardly be over estimated.

Unfortunately, the world into which this energy is to be released is not a perfect one. However, we can comfort ourselves with the thought that if it were perfect there would be little challenge and without challenge there could be little progress.

We hear many complain of world conditions and even use these as excuses for not pushing forward, saying "what's the use." Actually your opportunity is an enviable one. Not only are there frontiers to conquer every way we look upon this globe of ours, but frontiers in conquering space. There are opportunities everywhere for service and improvement. What we need is preparation, a desire to push forward, and to be alert to take advantage of every situation.

I wish you success and happiness.

Darting in and out of rooms and buildings, Mr. Long is always occupied with school business. His job as principal requires long hours and hard work. Fortunately Mr. Long has two capable assistants—Miss Newton and Mr. Stanford. Miss Newton acts in two major capacities. She is the curriculum advisor and the director of counselors. In both cases she exerts a great amount of influence on student activities. Mr. Stanford serves as the supervisor of attendance activities. He also handles the unpleasant duty of disciplining unruly students. These, of course, are only the major services of our vice-principals. Mr. Long is fortunate to have such competent assistants.

Counselors Superintend Our Training...

Much of the success of students in their later life is owed to the school they attend and the courses they study. While at LVHS students are fortunate in having the assistance of four able counselors. The counselors do not direct the students' future plans; instead they help the student decide for himself. Miss Dawson and Mr. George are always available to pupils of the upper classes. They understand the higher educational institutions, and their suggestions are valuable. Mrs. Stanford and Mr. Roe are happy to aid the bewildered students entering as Sophomores. Each student has a friend and advisor in his counselor.

Office Staff Performs Chores Cheerfully...

In the principal's office and the general offices, several people, who are important to the efficiency of the school, perform their duties. These people are known as the Staff. They operate the school offices in two fields—business and public relations. The Staff members do all of the important business work that is necessary for school operation, and they act as buffers between the school and the public. Since these persons work with students, they get to understand them. They are willing to aid the Student Body in almost any constructive project, and above all, they are loyal to the school. The well-being of the school depends heavily on our cheerful, able Staff.

Student Office Workers Develop Responsibility...

Supplementing their school day with actual office experience, a group of students serves as office aids. Running errands and typing lists, they remove a large burden of necessary work and give the administrators and counselors time that can be used to advantage. These students gain experience in office work, and while improving the efficiency of the counselor's offices, they help other students.

Books—keys of knowledge for the future—are stored and revered in the library. Although the library facilities are limited, they are steadily improving. There are a wide selection of bound periodicals, many fine reference works, and numerous volumes on general subjects. Our library has a good beginning and it will grow through the years to come. Students who use the library are rewarded with the knowledge they gain, for a thirst for learning and an ability to absorb written matter unlock the door to higher learning.

Luncheteria Nourishes Active Individuals...

Dual lunch periods temporarily upset the luncheteria schedule early this year, but problems were soon solved and the organization functioned smoothly. The shortened lunch periods were inconvenient to all concerned, but students, teachers, and the Luncheteria staff soon got used to them. The cheerful, efficient cooks and student help in the Luncheteria insure hungry students of nourishing food before and after school and during the noon lunch breaks. The Luncheteria acts as a necessary, efficient part of the school.

Persevering Custodians Improve Conditions ...

After the rush of pupils has subsided, the custodian's job begins. Day and night, the custodial staff works to insure a pleasant, clean atmosphere for study. Waxed floors, clean fountains, and shining boards are some signs of their work. Their labor concerns not only the school buildings, but also the campus in general. The overall appearance and neatness of the school are tributes to the exacting work of the custodial staff.

English Students Rediscover a Language...

The ambiguity of the English language is apparent to many of us before we reach LVHS. Here in our English program, the basic concepts of language are cemented into the minds of students. English usage, American literature, and English literature are studied. Students are made aware of thoughts and words. The written language, the basis of all communication, is analyzed. Students learn syntax, mechanics, and spelling, which will be useful in almost any vocation. As they learn their language, students attain a higher understanding of the American culture and our national ideals.

Customs and Cultures are Studied Through Languages...

Foreign languages create a unique type of challenge to the student. When he learns a strange tongue, he must start without previous knowledge. French, Spanish, and Latin have always flourished at LVHS. Student interest has caused the school to offer three years of Spanish and four years of French—a rarity in western schools. Many students wanted another language. This year a course in German was established, and it gained wide acceptance. Enthusiasm for languages led to the installation of a modern language laboratory. LVHS is making great strides in cultural harmony between nations.

Math - Opening the Door to Greater Thoughts...

The cold precision of figures confuses some students, but in time they notice the reasonable exactness of mathematics. Math occupies a position of importance in the curriculum of LVHS. Math trains the mind in logical reasoning, and since the power to reason can be applied to almost any situation, its usefulness can be seen. The natural development of a solution gives the student an insight into the processes of dialectic thinking, and learning to think beyond everyday affairs is necessary for future success. There are many uses for math. Practical applications are infinite and the mental enrichment gained is matchless.

Exploring the World About Them...

If a student knows the right people, he can see a live alligator right on campus. One of the numerous biology projects at LVHS is a large area where reptiles exist without appreciable interference from humans. A variety of basic science courses are offered at LVHS. They are primarily survey courses that introduce the student to fundamental ideas. These courses are only a beginning. Their purpose is to teach the rudiments, but it is here that interest is born. From simple observations, a strong desire to learn more is often gained.

Training for Tomorrow's Citizens...

Both the history of our nation and contemporary happenings indicate the multiple viewpoints of the people in the United States. Our citizens have divergent opinions on a variety of subjects: economics, religion, politics. The social science classes at LVHS bring the student face to face with controversies. He learns of the problems he will face in the world before him. Our teachers often have differing opinions, and they adhere to their own beliefs. This sometimes confuses students, but out of the disorder of principles, the student realizes that this is the form of world he must inhabit. Thus, he is trained for life.

Commercial Students Learn the Science of Accuracy...

One old adage says, "Practice makes perfect." Any student who participates in a commercial course is well aware of the fact that diligent practice produces a higher degree of accuracy. Bookkeeping, commercial law, shorthand and typing have obvious applications, since they prepare students for vocations in business. However, the courses are not limited to only those who plan on entering commercial professions. This year a one-semester class called Personal Typing was offered. This concentrated course is especially beneficial to the numerous college-bound students who follow tight schedules. The commercial classes at LVHS give students good, basic training that is useful throughout later years.

Creativity of Mind Exhibits Itself...

Expression through the many fine arts is not modern. Man has been displaying his emotions through music, the stage, dance, art, and literature throughout all his existence. Here at LVHS each student has the opportunity to create through these age-old medians. The art department has facilities for sculpturing, water coloring, and oil painting; the drama department utilizes native talent to its advantage. Students plan and perform their own dances, or they may play instruments in the school bands. Each student can find his creative niche if he searches, for everyone has the opportunity to show and use his talents.

Physical Education Tones Muscles...

Juniors and Sophomores are required to take Physical Education classes for one semester. The other semester is devoted to classroom studies of physiology and health practices. Physical education is beneficial to the student, since it gives him an opportunity to develop physical skills, and physical fitness is a vital part of our national security. P. E. offers the student a chance for relaxing recreation and exercise. Through the Physical Education classes, athletes and scholars alike are afforded the opportunity of self improvement.

Students Participate in Vocational, Special Interest Classes . . .

Every balanced curriculum has a wide choice of electives. These special classes give the student a chance to divert his interest from only one area. They widen the pupil's horizons and give him a better view of the many different roles that people fill in life. Shop classes acquaint him with the techniques of machinery; journalism helps teach him the techniques of writing and self expression; and driver education should teach him the skill of driving. There can be no better means of preparing a student for later life than by broadening his scope of ability and interest. Electives do just that.

After the pedestrian struggles of underclassmen, and the trials and tribulations of Juniors, the Senior class found that it had reached the summit of life at LVHS. Seniors were older, wiser. They knew the school; their ideas were respected. The class was expected to lead, because Seniors naturally initiate participation in athletics and government. The class enjoyed Senior privileges—such as, dress-up days, Senior stairs and Senior squares. The Senior class has several traditional activities. The Senior Mixer, homecoming float, Senior Ball, and the class play, "The Curious Savage," were successful. These students worked together for four years in all school functions. As more mature, prepared persons, they were graduated—as a group of new citizens.

Andrea Hill
 President

The class of 1963, like all other Junior classes, occupies an unique position in the school. The Juniors are no longer second class citizens of the school; they are now capable of accepting some of the responsibilities of upperclassmen. This year's class was the smallest class in the school because it was split when the new high school was built. The Juniors, as always, were active in school functions. The Junior Prom, Totem Pole, and Junior Assembly were successful. The success of these activities prophesies the future accomplishments of the Junior Class.

Class of 1964

Richard Huntington
President

Filled with apprehension, members of the Sophomore Class arrived at Las Vegas High School at the beginning of the school year. They came from different junior high schools—rival schools—and joined together as a class. The Class of '64 showed drive and ambition at Homecoming with their well made float, displayed unity at the annual slave sale, and exhibited their capabilities by the success of the Sophomore Hop. When the Seniors graduated, the Sophomores became Juniors, progressing one more step into the world before them.

Student Body of 1962 Erects Monument to Our School . .

LVHS Student Senate proposed the purchase of a large electric sign early in 1962. Spearheaded by the efforts of President Barry Johnson, the student body unified in an effort to secure the necessary funds. The bright glow of the largest high school sign in two states testifies to the school spirit of LVHS.

Students show growing enthusiasm for the money-raising project, camouflaged as a fishing contest.

Excitement grew as the sign was raised into position and workmen secured it.

Exceptional Seniors Honored in Who's Who . . .

Out of every class there appears a group of people who are exceptional in one way or another. Here at LVHS the senior class selects these people to appear in Who's Who. They are elected in mid-winter, and their identities remain hidden from the student body until the Echo is released in the spring. These are the outstanding seniors of 1962. They have achieved the recognition of their classmates and other people around the school.

Football Awards Presented . . .

Athletic awards manifest themselves in a variety of ways. To some the satisfaction of playing hard is enough; to others a well earned letter is sufficient. At the annual Quarterback Club banquet, the whole football team was feted. After hearing speeches by Coach William Barnes of UCLA and sportswriter Braven Dyer of the Los Angeles Times, the outstanding individuals of the 1961 football team were given the most valuable player awards. Their success can be attributed to a number of things, but these boys were not necessarily the flashiest men on the field. They were consistent in their efforts; the football team itself selected them for these awards. These five boys received the recognition of their team mates—the finest reward of all.

Youths of Clark County Speak Out at Sun Youth Forum

The success of the Sun Youth Forum points out the interest that Clark County youths have for the world about them. Students speak on panels that discuss a number of subjects such as international and national affairs, teen-age behavior, education, and racial problems. The panels' discourses are condensed and reported by selected panelists, including those of our own Benny Hoffman, Steve Miller, Marilyn Kelch and Micki Lasky. The Youth Forum is sponsored by the Las Vegas Sun, a local newspaper. The Sun has performed a valuable service to the young citizens of our city by giving the teen-agers of Clark County an opportunity to voice their opinions.

Years ago the United States was called the land of opportunity. Our nation is still teeming with wonderful opportunities for students with exceptional talents. Each year several students at LVHS win awards for their superior abilities. This exclusive percentage of outstanding students is surely beginning life realistically. We are proud of them, for their personal glories testify to the quality of students and teachers at LVHS.

Future Citizens, Learning to Lead . . .

Civic minded groups long ago initiated a program called Boys' State which instructs boys in the operation of state governments. Each year some of the outstanding students from the high schools in the state are selected to attend these one-week sessions. Eleven students from LVHS participated in a mock political system at the University of Nevada where they experienced some of the excitement and frustrations of public officers. The group listened to speeches, organized campaigns, and held elections for state officers. They operated under two parties, called Nationalists and Federalists, to make their government more realistic. Boys' State does not necessarily promote future political activities, but it helps to insure us of better citizens who know the processes of our system of government. Instructed in theory and operation of our state government, these boys returned to LVHS well prepared to be better citizens of the world before them.

Boys interested in their state's welfare, anxiously discuss with their counselor the possibility of attending Boys' State.

LVHS Representatives Attend Girls' State . . .

A stimulating week of political activity at Girls' State came to an exciting climax when Kathy Holland received the talent award and Marilyn Kelch was chosen to attend Girls' Nation in Washington, D.C. All participants returned to Las Vegas full of enthusiasm and respect for the machinery of our state government and happy memories of new and lasting friendships blended with a practical knowledge of our government that proved invaluable in their American Government classes.

LVHS Welcomes a Returning Traveler and Welcomes Student

Ruins of a thirteenth century castle located near Stuttgart overlook a peaceful German countryside.

Mike Hardy

Early in 1961 Mike Hardy learned he was going to Germany as an American Field Service exchange student. Mike lived in the western sector of Berlin, "the divided city". While he was there he learned of Germany's educational system, her customs, and her people through his adopted family. Mike had his first encounter with English taught in foreign countries and found that, according to German standards, he pronounced many words incorrectly. Staying briefly in the eastern sector of the city, Mike learned of the problems there, and he was nearly arrested and severely reprimanded by Soviet troops for photographing them. When Mike returned to LVHS as a senior, he had many stories to tell of his summer, a summer which widened his interests and influenced his opinions.

Serenity reigns in a once war ravished land.

from Abroad . . .

LVHS was rewarded with a candid appraisal of our nation and people as well as a look into the cultures of two island born visitors, when it welcomed our exchange students, Asthildur Brynjolfsdottir from Iceland and Hiroko Tatara from Japan. Language barriers were practically non-existent as their formal English yielded to contemporary American speech. While living in the United States, our exchange students gained an understanding of our culture through sports, activities, and school life. These girls adapted readily to Las Vegas and participated actively. We reluctantly let them leave, for it was LVHS's pleasure to have them here as exchange students.

Intellectual Elite - Aiding the School . . .

Rigid qualifications are met by junior and senior members of the Senior Honor Club. An academic group, the club is also a service group. They orientated new students in September. This year a special service for teachers was introduced: student tutors helped other students, and students who felt they could handle the job acted as substitute teachers in time of need. A recording was made of life at LVHS from the opening day of school to graduation—a record in sound of the year. The upper echelon of school life was represented by these solid citizens of LVHS, future citizens of the world.

Junior Honor Club, one of many such organizations throughout the country, serves as an incentive to students. It sets a goal to achieve. Being a member is a distinction earned by diligent study in the quest for knowledge, and those who meet its requirements are, indeed, to be honored. The first step to Senior Honor Club, it provides those participating in its activities with intellectual stimulation and enjoyable recreation.

Le Cercle Francais--Ici On Parle Francais, Toujours . . .

Mrs. Pivornick
Advisor

"PARLEZ-VOUS FRANCAIS?" — "MAIS OUI, JE PARLE FRANCAIS." — a common answer to a common question in a not-so-common organization where scholarship ranks high. Le Cercle Francais is perhaps the largest organization in school, yet all of the members, through the efforts of their widely-traveled advisor, Mrs. Lee Pivornick, feel the warm friendship and refinement that radiate from the group. Monthly meetings provide student participation through original conversations; genuine enjoyment through entertaining programs; and cultural enrichment through visiting speakers, slides of Europe, and films. Highlights of the year were a delightful visit to the Sands Hotel, a successful Christmas party, a stimulating talk on "Language in Space," an all-French program in April at Nevada Southern University for the State Convention of the Nevada State Council of Teachers of English and Languages, and a full-length French film shown in May. Friendly, exciting, entertaining, educational, cultural, enjoyable . . . that's LE CERCLE FRANCAIS!

Students Offered Vocational Instruction Through DECA ...

The Distributive Education Clubs of America are Part of a nation-wide program. The club members are all enrolled in a rather singular type of class in which the students are taught the finer points of sales technique. Learning through experience, class members hold down outside jobs in a variety of fields as a part of the course. The club itself serves as a social, business appendage of the class. The Vegas DECA chapter holds parties and sponsors an employer-employee banquet. The club also attends a breakfast with other DECA chapters in the state to elect officers.

Bombarding the school with football and basketball booster buttons and selling students pom-poms and programs, the Pep Club has been extremely active this year. They even found time among all their projects to sponsor a successful fashion show. The striking new outfits sported by the large membership met with the enthusiastic approval of everyone. New uniforms brightened the Pep Club section at games and pep assemblies, while garbage can lids, slide whistles, and bongo drums supported a series of well executed cheers. Bellows and screams drove our teams to victory or shared their painful defeats. Amusing skits were performed by energetic members during pep assemblies. These plays helped create much enthusiasm throughout the year. Pep Club was the nucleus of student cheering at all sport events. Varsity Cheerleaders Incite School Spirit . . .

Our two mascots add extra life and enthusiasm to the games.

These compact packages of school spirit led our student body in yells, both new and traditional. Aiding the Pep Club and Cheerleaders . . .

Fading school spirit has been a blight at LVHS in recent years. A school runs on a certain "Esprit de Corps," and if it is lost, everyone concerned suffers. The work of the Interscholastic Committee has helped reduce this grave problem. Eye catching posters, special gimmicks, and goal post decorations built pride in Vegas during the last year. The efforts of the Interscholastic Committee have helped stem the tide of apathy from Las Vegas High School.

Secrets, whispering in corners, abruptly broken conversations, smug expressions—these are the impressions members of the Wildcat Echo staff leave with visitors to their basement lair. There are many reasons for this curious atmosphere. The basic cause is the staff's natural desire to surprise the student body. The "unveiling" of the year's work takes place at the spring signing party. As the party rolls along its destined way, the work, the heartache, the extra hours, the dreams are all worthwhile to every member of the staff, for the students' acceptance of the Echo is their reward. Not the publications banquet, the Christmas dance, or the fun and jokes in the Echo room—these pale before the glow of contributing something to the pride and spirit of LVHS.

The Desert Breeze mirrors the internal thoughts, triumphs, and strifes of LVHS. Nevada's largest regular high school paper, the Breeze was published every two weeks. AND SO . . . continues in its fifth year as LVHS's literary magazine. Publishing a magazine like this requires a large amount of teamwork. Typists must type the work submitted. The literary board, which encourages free thinking, chooses suitable material while the art staff handles its many problems. Finally all these factors combine to give a magazine that is representative of creativity at LVHS.

Disappointment Offsets the Beauty of Homecoming . . .

A parade of original and outstanding floats representing the theme, Broadway plays, opened the activities of the sixth annual Homecoming competition between Las Vegas and Rancho High Schools. Once again, our deserving Student Senate walked away with the sweepstakes award. The tense and dramatic game was reigned over by vivacious Homecoming Queen, Shirley Pingle, accompanied by her lovely attendants, Jean Chambers and Tanya Mlynarczyk. Sad, but true, Sir Herkimer must spend another lonely year at Rancho High, but next fall will bring another Homecoming.

The exuberant leaders of our cheering section.

Radiant smiles of royalty beam throughout homecoming festivities

The climax of suspense is rewarded with happiness.

Positions Are Reversed the Night of the G. R. . . .

Stunning decorations delighted all who attended. Scenes from Paris, Japan, and Rockefeller Center followed the theme, "I Found My World in You." Most striking was the statue of Venus de Milo, whose serene beauty penetrated the entire evening. Amid the splendor, Gardy Jolley was crowned "Most Preferred Man," attended by Tom Hardy and Tom Boyd.

First Annual Inaugural Ball is a Huge Success . . .

This impressive event, the first of its kind at Las Vegas High, will long be remembered by all who were in attendance. Formal to the finest detail, students were greeted by a receiving line and participated in a Grand March led by the Student Body officers and their partners. The highlight of the evening was the inauguration ceremony brought to a memorable close by the excellently prepared and delivered inaugural address of our Student Body President, Barry Johnson.

The President and his First Lady begin the gala event.

The Grand Procession.

The Inaugural Ball was enjoyed by all.

Mid-Winter Revelries Sponsored by Pep Club . . .

The crowning of our gracious Winter Queen and the cold, brisk breezes of Nevada provided a proper atmosphere for the Pep Club sponsored dance, Frosted Fantasy. Pep Club members worked with tenacity and creativity and produced a thoroughly enjoyable dance for the students of LVHS.

Four schools were represented at the annual Winter Wonderland.

Imaginary snowflakes and blissful dancing added to the Christmas spirit.

LVHS Winter Queen and her attendants added to the glow of the dance with three gracious smiles.

Festive Season Honored by Mistletoe Magic . . .

Reflecting the spirit of the Christmas season was Mistletoe Magic, sponsored by the Wildcat Echo. Striking decorations emphasized the holiday period and delicious refreshments proved fitting to the theme: they disappeared as if by "magic!" Mistletoe corsages adorned the dancing couples and added to the tantalizing spirit of Christmas.

Making spirits bright was the Echo staff's first thought.

One of the many centers of enjoyment was the refreshment table.

There was magic in the air on that night of nights.

Sweetheart Ball, A February Valentine . . .

February — the dwindling of winter and the onslaught of spring brings Valentines Day to the young people of our country. Dances occur in all the high schools of our country along with cards, candy, and kisses. LVHS holds its Sweetheart Ball in February — just a couple of days before Valentine's Day. Sweetheart couples are nominated and the student body votes on them. Spring is in the air as the honored pair is chosen on the evening of the Sweetheart Ball, a fine climax to the Valentine season at LVHS.

Cupid's arrow struck the hearts of the Sweetheart couple and their Attendants:

Romance and happy faces enveloped the atmosphere of the annual affair.

Senior Ball Announces the End of Four Years at LVHS .

The Senior Ball, a eulogy to the senior class, evolved around the theme "Written on the Winds." Amid the lavish decorations, happy seniors passed an evening that will live long in their memories. The history of the class of 1962 was brief. The four short years the students spent together at LVHS will soon be part of the easily forgotten past. Those who follow will not remember this class, because memories of our individual lives at LVHS are as impermanent as messages "Written on the Winds."

Amid all the joys and sorrows of the Senior year, smiling couples will always remember the night their memories were "Written on the Winds".

Seniors Are Recognized During Senior Days . . .

Passing from the oblivion of life as a student, seniors came into their heritage as the long awaited Senior Days arrived. Long stifled, Seniors were given an opportunity to exercise their most important Senior Privileges. Some seniors were allowed to act as teachers. Senior dress-up days and Senior "costume" days were called. This is one time when Seniors virtually had free run of the school — just one last fling for some before leaving LVHS for the last time.

Prominent seniors such as Richard Neumeyer practice guiding the executive division of our administration on Senior Days.

Carol Hemington ably demonstrates a grammatical point to the class which she teaches for Mrs. Neville.

At the Senior Mixer, many seniors display their ideas of T. V. characters.

Juniors Sponsor Traditional Prom in March . . .

Passing through Neptune's icy-blue tunnel, couples entered a submarine "Realm of Enchantment," the Junior Prom. This mid-March event was the acme of junior achievements — one of the high points of the year at LVHS. Lovely Sharon Thomas reigned over the Prom as Queen, while her many upperclass subjects spent a memorable evening, enjoying the junior class' most successful production.

The royal court of the Junior Class takes over King Neptune's throne.

This charming committee was responsible for the successful affair.

White jackets and beautiful dresses added to the formal atmosphere.

Happy Sophomores Climb the Stairway to the Stars . . .

Lively Sophomores exist as the only underclassmen at LVHS. They came from the four corners of Las Vegas, but their annual social affair, the Sophomore Hop, proved that these youngsters can work together as a class. The Sophomores arranged the dance themselves, choosing "Stairway to the Stars" as their theme. In this age of impending space travel, a more appropriate theme could not have been chosen. As time passes, so will the lowly Sophomores, climbing their own stairway to the stars—and the world before them.

Delightful evening was enjoyed by couples as they climb the "Stairway to the Stars."

Ambitious Sophomores work hard to make this a very special occasion.

Many clubs exist at LVHS, but none is quite as unique as Art Guild. The guild is basically a group of students who are interested in art. Entrance is gained through proficiency in drawing, painting, or sculpturing. The Art Guild is relatively new organization which was quite active this year. Members visited local artists, and art exhibits at the library. They found time and talent to paint a mural in the Wildcat theater, and they sponsored their annual ugly face contest which produced many grotesque visages. Members of this club have found activity through art and, perhaps, art through activity.

A' Cappella Chorus is one of the fine musical groups at LVHS, made up of mixed selected voices. Students in A' Cappella perform in various community functions and give frequent demonstrations of their singing ability to the people of Las Vegas. LVHS is not the only school that hears these fine singers; for they visit junior high schools in the city also. The group has won consistently high ratings at local music festivals and in California competitions.

Aiding the Dramatics Department in Their Efforts ...

Bound together by their interest in the theatre arts, members of the Las Vegas chapter of the National Thespian Society strive to promote the theatre at LVHS. Thespians take part in all dramatic productions. Their work entails not only acting, but make-up, scene construction, and light management. They work very closely with the drama department to help produce plays and assemblies that are compliments to the school.

Miss Simmons

Las Vegas High School probably has one of the most successful high school drama departments in the nation. This success is due to the quality of teachers and the influence of the city. LVHS has always been fortunate in gaining good drama teachers and Miss Jody Simmons, this year's teacher, is no exception. Dramatics classes in the school are well taught in the rudiments of voice control, the secrets of lighting, the skills of set design, and the principals of acting. The Drama department's success was shown in their productions of the Curious Savage and Joan of Lorraine. Through competent instruction, drama students will demonstrate their abilities in the future.

"If you do I'll have the bridges burned down, I'll cut off your supplies."

"As for me Joan, I have decided that it would be better not to attack the Tourelles until we can surround it."

"King of Heaven give me the strength to do what is right."

Speaking Finesse Is Polished by Practicing Debaters . . .

Our remarkable debate squad continued in its winning tradition this year at such meets as the Arizona State Forensic Tournament, the Cachella Valley Winter Carnival, and our own Nevada State Tournament. The student body witnessed their excellence in a series of contests between our team and one from St. George, Utah, held in several classes. Long hours of study and practice go into the creation of an entire team of polished speakers, ready to debate either the affirmative or negative side of this year's topic, Federal Aid to Education.

Marching, Playing the Band Performs at Functions . . .

Mr. Larson
Director

With a quick whistle blast and a drum roll, the Las Vegas High School Wildcat band marches up the field at half-time. In red and black columns the award winning group forms initials and symbols of our school. A little later in the year, a smaller, more informal group can be heard at basketball games, playing swinging Dixieland arrangements. Through the year they work, building school spirit, showing others their talent, and giving the students enjoyment. This is our band, an important segment of life at LVHS.

Hopeful and Courageous, Our Starting Lineup Ended th

Year With Blasted Dreams . . .

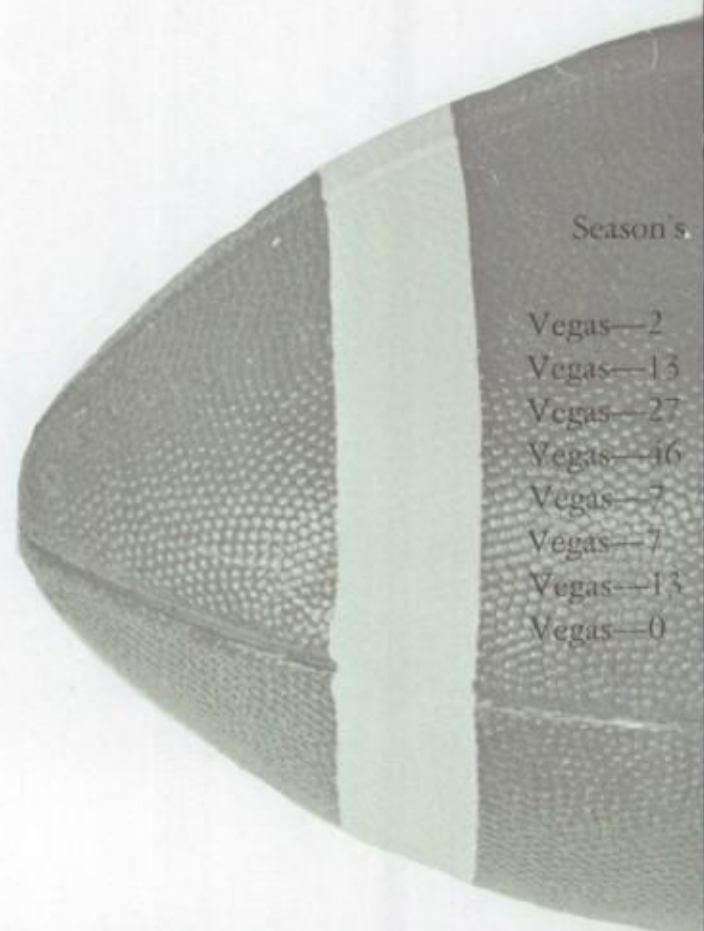

Despite a lack of depth, the Wildcats proved a rugged team during the 1961 football season. Hard discipline and conditioning showed their place in this sport long ago, and the 'Cats showed their will to fight all through the season. They dropped their first game to a powerful Borah squad, but came out on top of an equally tough Banning eleven. Three league wins and a tie with San Diego showed a strong, well-conditioned team which had to bow to a charmed Bakersfield force. Disappointment climaxed the season when all promise of state honors disappeared as old rivals, Rancho Rams, nipped the fighting Wildcats in their yearly encounter.

The Leadership and Hard Work of These Men . . .

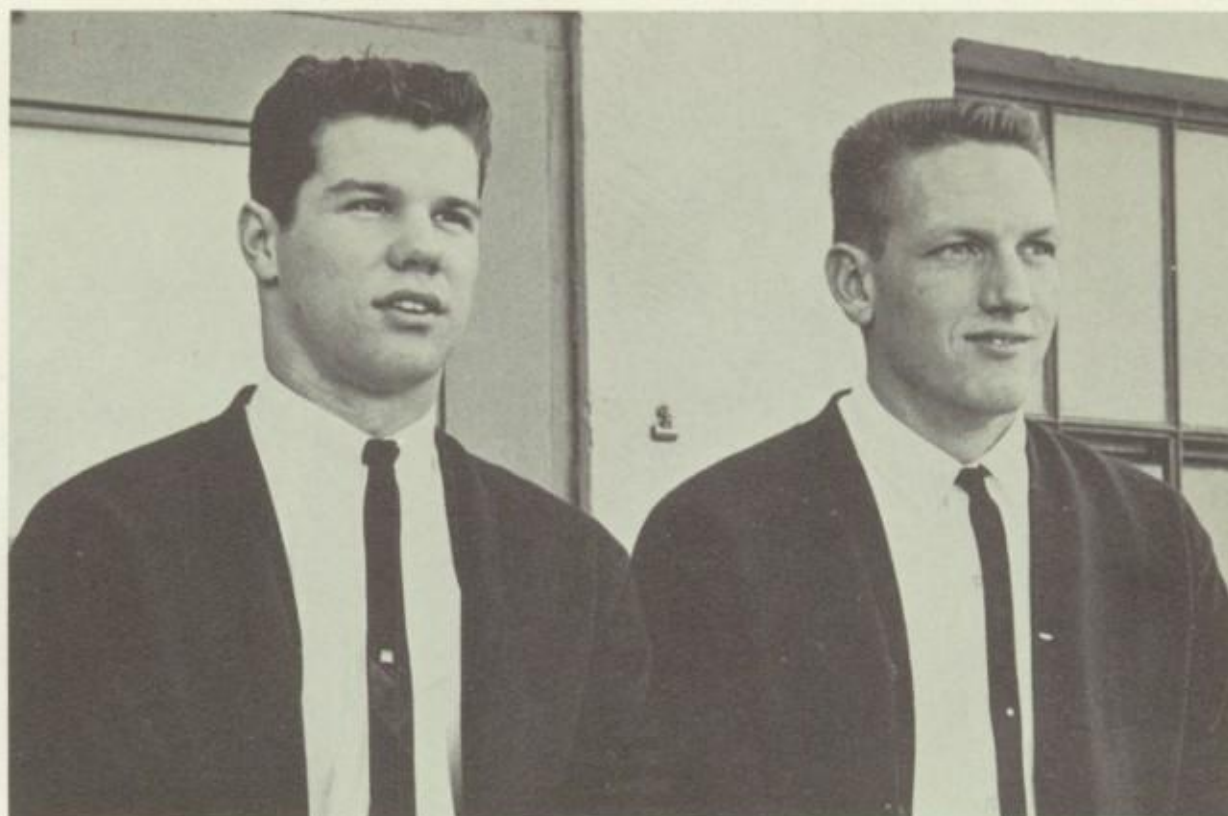

De Ray Eyre in his first year as Head Coach did an outstanding job with the Wildcats. Emphasizing hard work and rigid training, he led our team with unlimited energy and enthusiasm. Coach Eyre is regarded by his players as an outstanding man and an excellent instructor. The initiation of a new offense and the strengthening of the defense proved to be examples of his skill and originality in the coaching profession. It is to this man that the members of the 1961 Wildcat football team owe their respect and gratitude. Surely De Ray Eyre has become another of the great Coaches in the history of Las Vegas High School.

Richard Harris
Varsity Manager

Tom "Dog-gone-it" Birch, another newcomer to the coaching staff, arrived last fall and produced the strongest line in the history of our football team. It was his instruction and pushing that helped make our season the success that it was. Coach Birch is respected and admired by all the men who played for him, two of whom were selected as All-Americans. The Wildcats salute Tom Birch, assistant Varsity Football Coach.

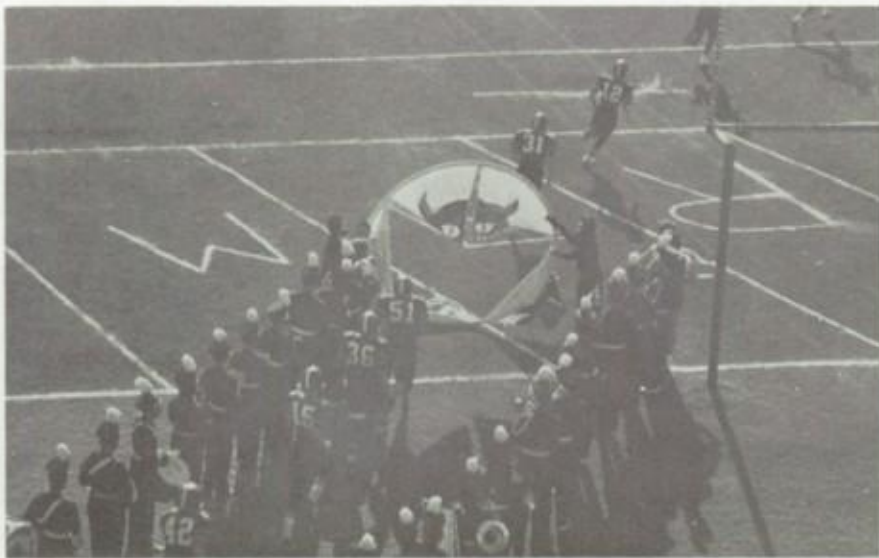

Barry Johnson and Bruce Bean . . . Co-Captains

It is fitting that Barry and Bruce were selected as co-captains as these two men have played side by side for the past four years on our football team.

Our Future ... The Junior Varsity

Perhaps the scores indicate that the JV's had an unsuccessful season, but as any member of the squad would testify, they had a tremendously successful year. The reason . . . they beat Rancho, of course! The team had a gallant spirit and much desire was shown by each player. Surely this spirit will be with the baby cats as they go on to varsity competition in the years to come.

Graduate Players' Bright Hopes Tarnished . . .

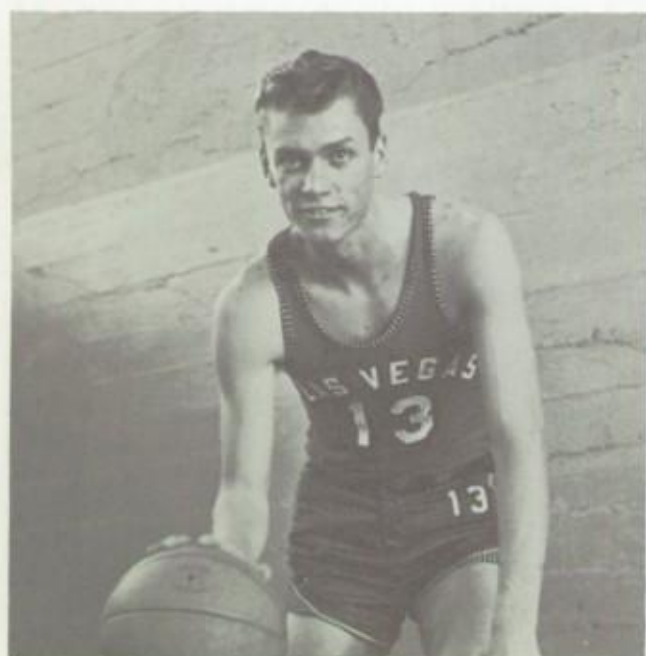

The Vegas hoopsters of 1962 showed promise as they defeated strong Southern California teams in the first few games of the season. Despite mid-season injuries and illnesses, the Wildcats played a successful season. The 'Cats defeated Basic of Henderson in their first encounter and barely lost to the Wolves in the second. Newcomer, Western of Las Vegas, was defeated in two loop games. White Pine also bowed to Vegas twice. LVHS lost one and won one in league play with cross town rivals, Rancho. Fast breaking Wildcats lost to a State Champion Western five in the first game of the Zone Tournament, but they came back strong, severely beating Rancho to secure third place.

Old Pros Bring New Hopes to Vegas Baseball . . .

Coach Lou Pisani, longtime stand-by in the Vegas athletic department, rekindled hopes as he took over the position of head baseball coach. LVHS started off the season with a good coach and a group of hard working players. The Vegas ball-hawks showed real promise in early season practices and games.

Tracksters Work to Retain State Crown . . .

Defending state champions, the Wildcat track team displayed a lot of grit and determination, as they resumed practice early in the year. Last year's graduation left a lot of hard-to-fill voids, but under the able guidance of track mentor, Dick Truman, 1962's team promised success in track and field.

Swan Song

Through our years of high school, many lessons have been taught and learned, many hours have been given to building new and better personalities, many hearts have been turned in different directions. Each individual has truly grown through the many situations and opportunities presented him. But now we are graduates. The door has opened, the world is before us, and we must go forward in it. Through the spiritual, mental, and physical learning that we have received here we can and must set out into the world with great goals in our minds and industrious ambitions in our hearts.

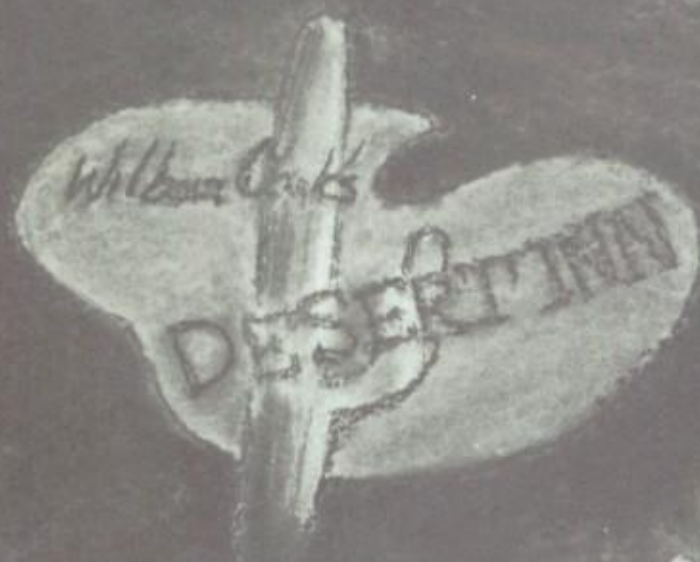

As we go to meet the world, we remember a verse from our Alma Mater:

"Brighter far than crowned jewel
Shines this guiding ray
Leading on to future greatness
Lighting forth the way."

—Harvey Stanford
